DIO SALVI LA REGINA

Diana, a mother and a doctor, is a normal woman with a normal life, who decides to make a poetic act of social insubordination, declaring her house's independence from the Italian state. She is driven by the hope of saving her 'people'. All the protagonists – the small family and friends who show up uninvited in the house every day – will be affected by this singular choice and projected towards a new way of relating to everyday life, to others.
