

KAROLINA

Katia and Magda are two best friends about to take their final exam at the Film high school. They like to have fun but they must prepare for the test: they have to make a film. When their teacher tells them they should work on Blessed Karolina Kozka's story, they say no at first! Katia and Magda wanted to make a film about important social issues and contemporary problems, they wanted to change the world, why should they focus on a peasant girl who died hundred years ago? but then... things will start to go differently.

Karolina is a warm, sensible story about what young people desire and the choices they make, about the problems and dilemmas adults, with complicated family lives, are faced with, but also about how you can find help and support looking to those who have lived before us... a long time ago. This film explores the world of simple, universal values underlying a good and happy life.
